WOW! WHAT A RIPPER!

The split level character home in Bunbury breathes new life and meaning into that familiar old rule for buying real estate - Location, Location, Location.

This property is nestled on almost a quarter acre in a well established and attractive area of sought-after South Bunbury. This character home enjoys views across the city, to the port, harbour and inland hills.

But it's not just the location that will have you swooning when you meet the cheerful family home on offer here.

And that's just the outside - on the inside the home provides numerous vantage points to admire those stunning views, heart-warming character traits that you would expect from a home of its era, including timber framed windows and doors, plus modern improvements that ble
